

- Q1. (d) An application program is a common mechanism for user to access data in the database but the application programs and the database may not reside on the same computer. Therefore the database applications are divided into THREE (3) categories based on the location of the application and the database software itself. Name these THREE (3) categories of database application. (3 marks)